

POST GRADUTE DIPLOMA IN NUTRITION AND DIETITICS

COLLEGE OF HOME SCIENCE, SKRAU, BIKANER

Nomenclature of the Degree

The nomenclature of the degree awarded shall be P. G. Diploma in Nutrition and Dietetics.

Objectives

- To produce competent Dietetic professionals by imparting quality education and vocational training and skills giving wide exposure to the Nuances of Dietetics.
- Nutrition and dietetics is a field in which students gain knowledge and training in different aspects of food safety, community nutrition and therapeutic nutrition.

Scope:

- As professional dieticians in hospitals and specialty clinics.
- As Nutrition and Diet consultants in Food service organizations like Hotels, Hostels, geriatric homes etc.
- As Registered Dieticians.
- As Administrators of Industrial canteens and other specialities.

Eligibility Criteria

Students with Bachelor's degree of a recognized university with minimum 55% marks in Home Science, Biology, Homeopathy, Ayurveda and Life Sciences.

Number of seats

The intake capacity will be 20 students with minimum 10 to run the program.

Mode of Admission

Selection is based purely on merit.

Duration of program

One year with 3 months internship in a Hospital. Course shall be commences on July of every year.

Medium of instruction:

The medium of instruction will be English. However the student will have the option to write their examination in Hindi or English.

Salient features

- Professional tie-up with national institution.
- Well equipped Laboratory and well stocked library with latest edition of Indian journal.
- Best institutional-job centre interaction through internship/on the job training in hospitals.
- Active women development agenda including personality development, value education, communication skills, stress alleviation, interview etiquette and other life skills